The young Englishman who recently went to Boston for the purpose of hunting buffaloes "eather party." was perhaps a little more ignorant than the majority of his countrymen, and yet his mistake was not surprising. The British press was accustomed until very lately to regard America adventurous travellers. When American wheat English mills, it gradually penetrated to the mind of the British journalist that here was a proper field for the news-gatherer. The result of this fresh and imperfect perception is seen in the publication by the London press of a variety of absurd reports about American affairs, which muddle the head of with astonishment and disgust. The next step will be an attempt to obtain the truth. The first reports from strange lands are apt to be half fabulous; the Hucs, Humboldts, Livingstones and Bayard Taylors are preceded by the Mandevilles and Mendez Pintos. The romancer serves a good purpose in stimulating the desire for knowledge; and then the real explorer soon follows. Even the American correspondence of The London Times is not without its uses. The readers of that solemn journal, who were regaled awhile ago with a telegram to the effect that the New-York Demoeratic Convention had been hard at work for two days, "endeavoring to put an end to the "conflict between the Tilden and the Tam-"many Hall Democrats," can scarcely have The voters of Connecticut at the annual obtained from the dispatch a perfectly clear election of town officers in October will act | idea of the proceedings of the Syracuse peaceing of The Times may be significant of better things coming. The Saturday Review, which may be safely depended upon to say more foolish things about the United States than any other paper printed in the English language, has lately been disseminating misinformation with its usual liberality. It has been moved-as it not unfrequently is at this time of the year-to discuss "American Electioneering," and we need hardly say that it has reached some bewildering conclusions. The fortunes of General Butler, as we learn from this authority, have been seriously impaired by the failure of the Workingman's party in California, where the Republican candidate, "for-"merly a Baptist minister," has been elected "Governor," probably profiting "by the out-"rageous attempt of one of his opponents to 'murder him on the eve of his election." THE STATE CANVASS.

With Samuel J. Tilden plotting and working for dear life on one side of a political campaign, ex-confidence on the other side would be a very dan-

date for State Treasurer, says in his letter of accept ance; "The Republican party accomplished the recent cforms in State Administration. It passed the constientornal amendments which made them imperative and adming. By that series of acts it exemplated the parit and fructs of Republican rule; and should Republic tican State officers now be chosen they will be pleaged to carry on the good work which their party in against the Welfare of the State and the security of the Nation alike require Republican success."

The Republican canvass will open with spirit ext week. Meetings will be held at important points, to se followed by a general movement in every county. Gen eral Woodford will speak at Auburn Wednesday, and at Ithaca Thursday evenings; the Hon. Hamilton Ward will speak at Homer Puesday evening, at Rome Thirs-day evening; the Hen. Galasha A. Grow, of Pennsylvania, at Hornelisville Tuesday evenion; the Hon. Theodore M. Pomeroy, at Auburn Wednesday evening; the Hen. Neil Gilmour, at Croton Priday evening. Other

Really independent voters who may contemplate veting for Governor Robinson in preference to Mr. Cornell, if there are any such, should reflect long and deeply upon two significant facts-the character of the man to whom Governor Robinson primarily owed his nomination, and the character of the organization by which the practical work of the nomination was carried through to success. The man was Samuel J. Tilden, the reputed author of the cipher disputence; the egantzation was the Brooklyn Ring, which by its firm resistance to all the attempts of Tammany to nominate a Brooklyn man secured Robinson's nomination. The hered to the policy they have followed for five yearsever since Tilden came into power in the party. If he, should ask them to support President Hayes as a Dono-cratic candidate for Governor, in all probability they would do it. People have been uncharitable enough to suggest that the Brookiya Democrais, for some strange reason, were afraid of Mr. Piden, and the story goes that on en one occasion when Brookiya did not seem to be doing its whole daily, he remarked in an earness whisper to a convenient friend, "What do they want he to come over there and investigate them i" Rumor has it that the Kings County backbone stiffened at once, and that Mr. Tiden and no further came for compaint. The story may be true, and may not. Even if not, it is an excellent paradic, and may be commonded to the infantine "scratchers" who are so grieved to find that Mr. Coundits actually a politician, and so different from Governor Robinson, who sits up nights referming things.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

LA PERICHOLE.

Mr. Maurice Grau, as he well deserved, bus made no less a success with his second opers, "La "erichele," than he did with his first, " La Pale de Mune. Augot." He had taken pains that the work should go of brillantly -providing an admirable cast and a charging sings setting, and doing his atmost to make his performance perfect. The result was that something delightful was given, and certainly so such ever heen seen here. Capoul, as Piquillo, was not at good as in the rôle of Ange Pilou, but that was the one fact is the consequence of the other, for the Brack, in Ring Democrats in supporting Robinson only as. Then occur in Lecocy's work. Every point that he could muse, however, was raken advantage of, and he saug and acted with the saure grace and refinement that he drowed in his first part of the same kind. He is in this, naboure, not the common budson that we have here totore generally seen in opera-boulfe, but an accomptished singer and a finished actor, who does his work in the spirit of a true artist. The character is a p turesque one, and even though the music has no great merit or inscrest, the picturesqueness invests it with a Paola Marie, who has the title part, is more charming than she was in "La Fille de Mine, Augot," As with Capoul's part, the music in that opera gave her a better chance to display her purely vocal talents than does 'La Perichole," but her powers as an acticas, on the other hand, find much greater scope in the latter. This was the scrongest part of her sister Irma Marié, who was very charming in it, and of sourse it was to be exwas very charming in it, and of course it was to be expected that the audience should make comparison between the two impersonations. That this comparison was not to the disadvantage of the later one was some evident. Lucking some of the personal advantages when were set sister's strongest attractions, Paon excels her incomparably is the refluence of the methods, and in a certain warsone, dainty grace. She sains delightfully what there is for her to sing, so delightfully that one regrets that sin has not more to do, and it half said that such charming work should be thrown away on a thing of so little value as Offentach's music. She almost makes the open respeciable, and she could hardly have a more difficult task. As the rest of the cost, it is all good. The small parts are filled by excel-
